

634 STUDENT HOMEWORK

I. PURPOSE

The purpose of this policy is to define how student homework is used to enhance learning.

II. GENERAL STATEMENT OF POLICY

Alexandria Public Schools recognizes regular purposeful homework is an essential component of the instructional process. Student homework is an integral factor in fostering academic achievement and in extending school learning into the home. Homework is beneficial and important to a student's educational program.

III. DEFINITION

“Homework” means the tasks assigned to students by teachers that are meant to be completed during non-school hours or independent study time during the school day.

Homework is one of many learning activities in which students engage. The purposes for student homework include:

- Assisting students in becoming independent learners.
- Extending learning and/or providing practice in applying concepts presented in the classroom.
- Creating and stimulating interest on the part of the student.
- Providing opportunities for enrichment.
- Aiding in the mastery of skills.
- Fostering parent/guardian-student involvement in education.

Homework should be realistic in length and difficulty, given the students' abilities to work independently, recognizing that the amount of homework will increase as the student progresses through the grades. The parameters of homework include:

- All homework shall have a purpose, which should be identified and articulated, and focus on quality versus quantity.
- Daily homework assignments may be included in grades.

- Daily homework informs the teacher where students are at in their learning.
- The homework should be able to be completed by the student with minimal parent/guardian assistance, unless the parent/guardian support is part of the homework (i.e. reading to parent/guardian, practicing math facts).

IV. RESPONSIBILITIES

- A. School Site – Each school site will conduct regular discussions across grade levels to reflect on the consistency of applying the district’s Student Homework policy. This would include:
- Communicating the homework policy to families, including the purpose of homework, the amount of homework to expect, consequences for not completing homework and a description of the types of parental involvement that are expected or acceptable; and
 - Pacing homework assignments among classes to avoid “homework overload” on a given night.
- B. Teachers – Teachers are responsible for assigning meaningful homework for the purpose of enrichment, mastery of skills and/or completion of daily assignments. The teacher has the responsibility of determining the nature and the length of the homework assignment, with the understanding that the students have the ability and skills to complete the work. The teacher must assess all homework.
- C. Students – Students are to complete the homework in a timely manner. If a student does not understand the homework assignment, he/she should feel free to contact the teacher for further support and assistance.
- D. Parents/Guardians - Parents/guardians are to monitor their student’s learning activities at home and to assist them as necessary. Parents/guardians should provide a place and atmosphere that is conducive to studying and give encouragement to the student to do their best work. Parents/guardians are encouraged to contact the teacher, and if necessary the principal, when they have concerns with a student’s homework.
